Lucas and Wood Counties

The Lucas and Wood Counties single-family housing market remained active in December, with closed sales increasing 10.8% from last year despite a 2.9% decline in new listings. Home prices continued to climb, as the median sales price rose 12.6% for the month and 10.9% year to date, while the average sales price increased 9.6% in December and 9.3% year to date. Homes took slightly longer to sell, with days on market up 6.6%, and inventory levels expanded modestly, reflected in a 14.4% increase in months' supply. Even so, buyer demand remained strong, pushing total December sales volume up 21.4% and year-to-date volume up 12.4%.

The condo and villa segment showed mixed results, with December closed sales edging up 3.2% but overall dollar volume declining due to lower prices. Median and average prices fell notably for the month, while year-to-date pricing remained relatively stable and days on market improved. Overall, the data indicates a resilient single-family market supported by strong demand and rising prices, while the condo and villa market continues to adjust with more moderate performance.
